FACULTY . . . 13

Viking faculty and students have worked hard to make the 1970-71 school year the best one ever.

Keeping in mind an academic schedule, many freshmen Vikings were offered many interesting subjects. Freshmen could pick either French, Latin, Spanish, general shop or homemaking for one period. Then in place of study hall they could take choir, band, orchestra, art or help in the office or in the gym. So as you can see ninth graders had a very interesting year at Lane.

Seventh and eighth graders had a well planned schedule ranging from English to physical education.

After school for entertainment there was always seventh period activities and all students were encouraged to join at least one. Sports were also after school. The teams did very well this year and we are proud of them.

This yearbook is a way of showing what kind of year it was and it was one to be remembered for years to come.

. . . Knowing Your Country

to an ok girl in Homeroom
Doug Stein

Social studies classes are required for seventh and eighth graders and freshmen may elect to take citizenship. This is the only course offered to freshmen in this area.

Citizenship is a study of our government. It introduces each student to his responsibilities to his country.

Eighth graders study American History for the entire year. The course also includes the study of current events with film strips and newspapers.

The seventh grade class studies world geography. The last nine weeks is a concentrated study of the history of Indiana.

Miss Nichols introduces eighth graders to our heritage.

"Hypothesis" keeps Mr. Fry's students busy.

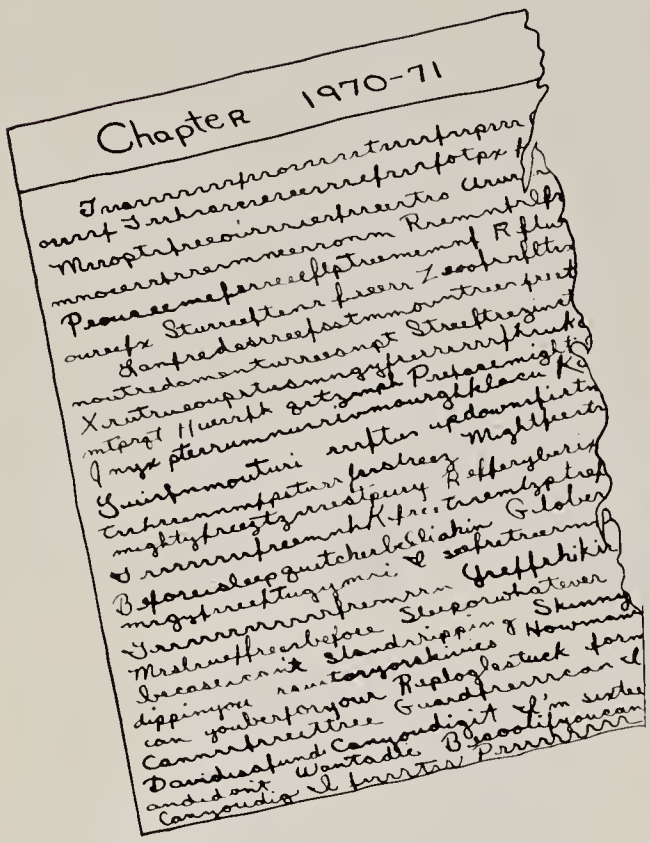
. . . A Page of Work from a Year of English



Mrs. Dillion's eighth grade class responds to her questions.

Sheryl Rogers, Kim Freese, Gary Tieman and Steve Lee use library facilities during Mr. Graham's developmental reading class.

When students receive their subject cards on the first day of school the first subject they see is English no matter what grade they are in. Behind this word is a year of grammar, composition, book reports, spelling and literature.

With the help of the library and various audio-visual aids, this subject proves to be different every day.

With a good program and superior English teachers how can Vikings miss being perfect in this subject!

Mr. Miller's class learns Spanish.

In addition to tapes, films and projects, this year earphones have been added to help teach French and Spanish.

Studies in Spanish, French and Latin include basic vocabulary, conversation, historical background of the country and customs of the land. The languages are offered to ninth grade students.

Kelly: To real groovy kid. Kathy Gant

Miss Bridges recounts the glory of Rome in her Latin Class.

. . . Knowing Three Languages

Mrs. Schoeff uses the new earphones.

Examples are a big part of Mr. Budenz's science classes.

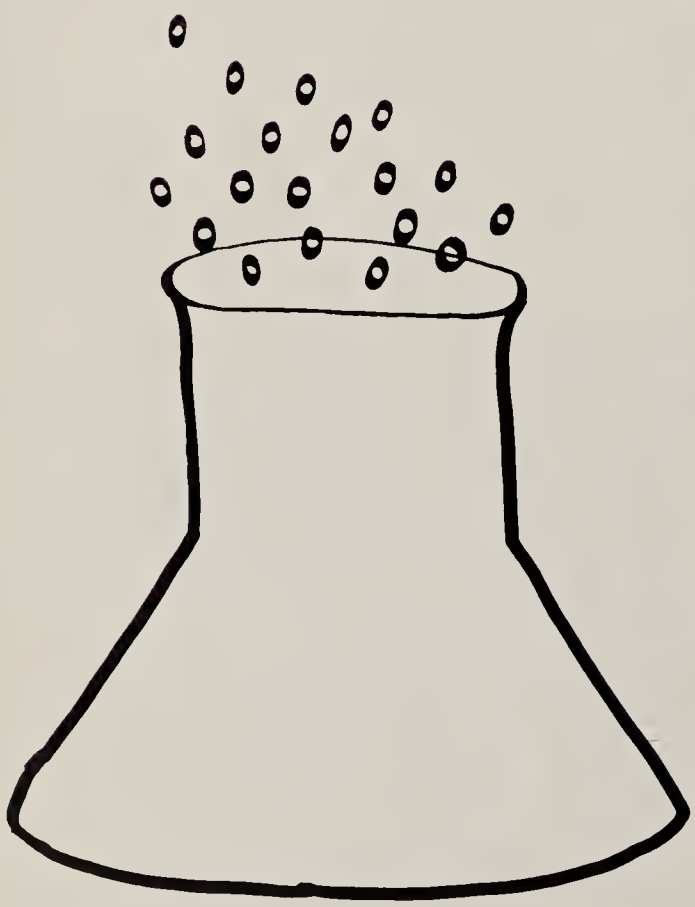
Experimenting with chemicals or learning about insects are two subjects which the Lane science classes use in their text.

Seventh grade students learn fundamentals of science as well as having a unit of Health in one semester.

Eighth graders study more basics of the subject which include several non-living sciences such as light, sounds, magnetism, electricity, and weather.

Freshmen at Lane study Biology. In this course they learn about living organisms such as insects, leaves, worms, and fish. They dissect many of these organisms.

. . . Einstiens in the Making



Mr. Crum and his class watch themselves on the new television set.

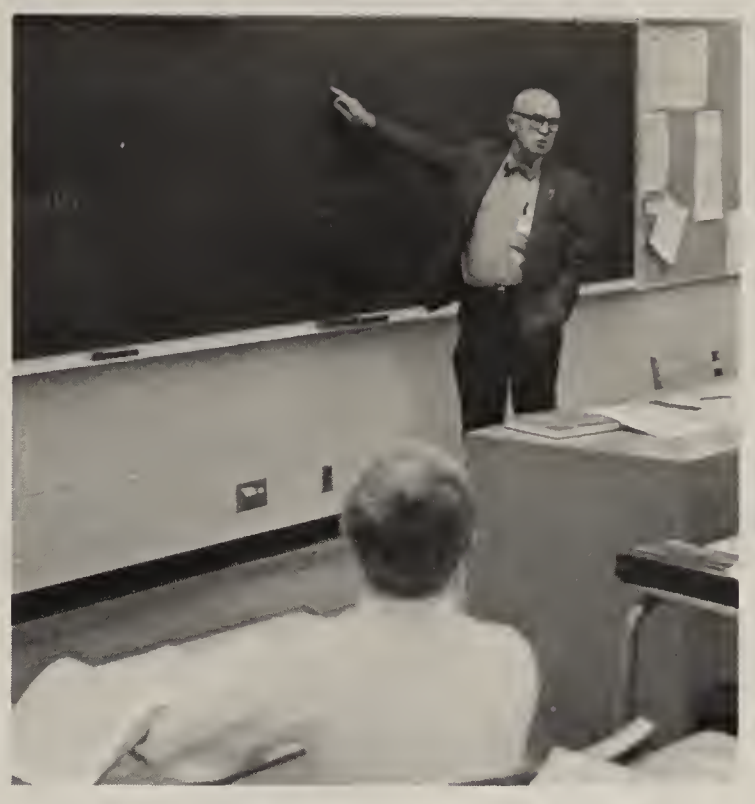
. . . Playing with Numbers

Five mathematical courses are offered at Lane this year. Seventh graders start their three years off with an indepth study of fractions, decimals and percentages.

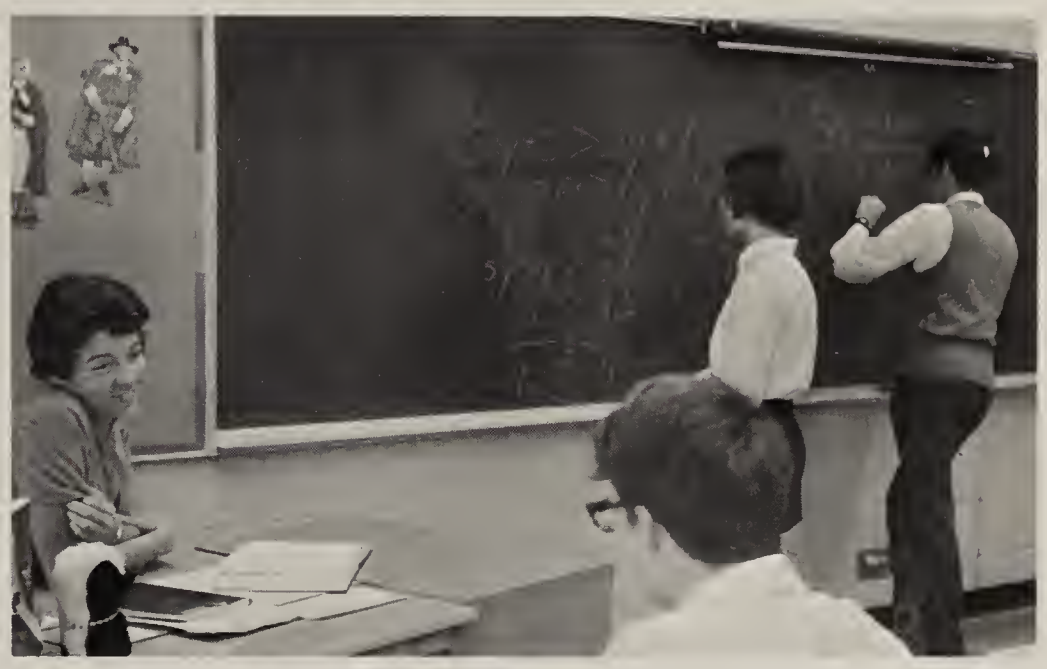
Eighth graders must develop an avid interest in geometric studies and negative numbers.

Ninth graders are offered general mathematics, two year algebra or one year algebra. Algebra classes review math until ninth grade then they start applying what they have learned and are introduced to equations, story problems and other math problems. General mathematics continues studying numbers and fractions.

Junior high mathematics gives a basic foundation for future years in high school.



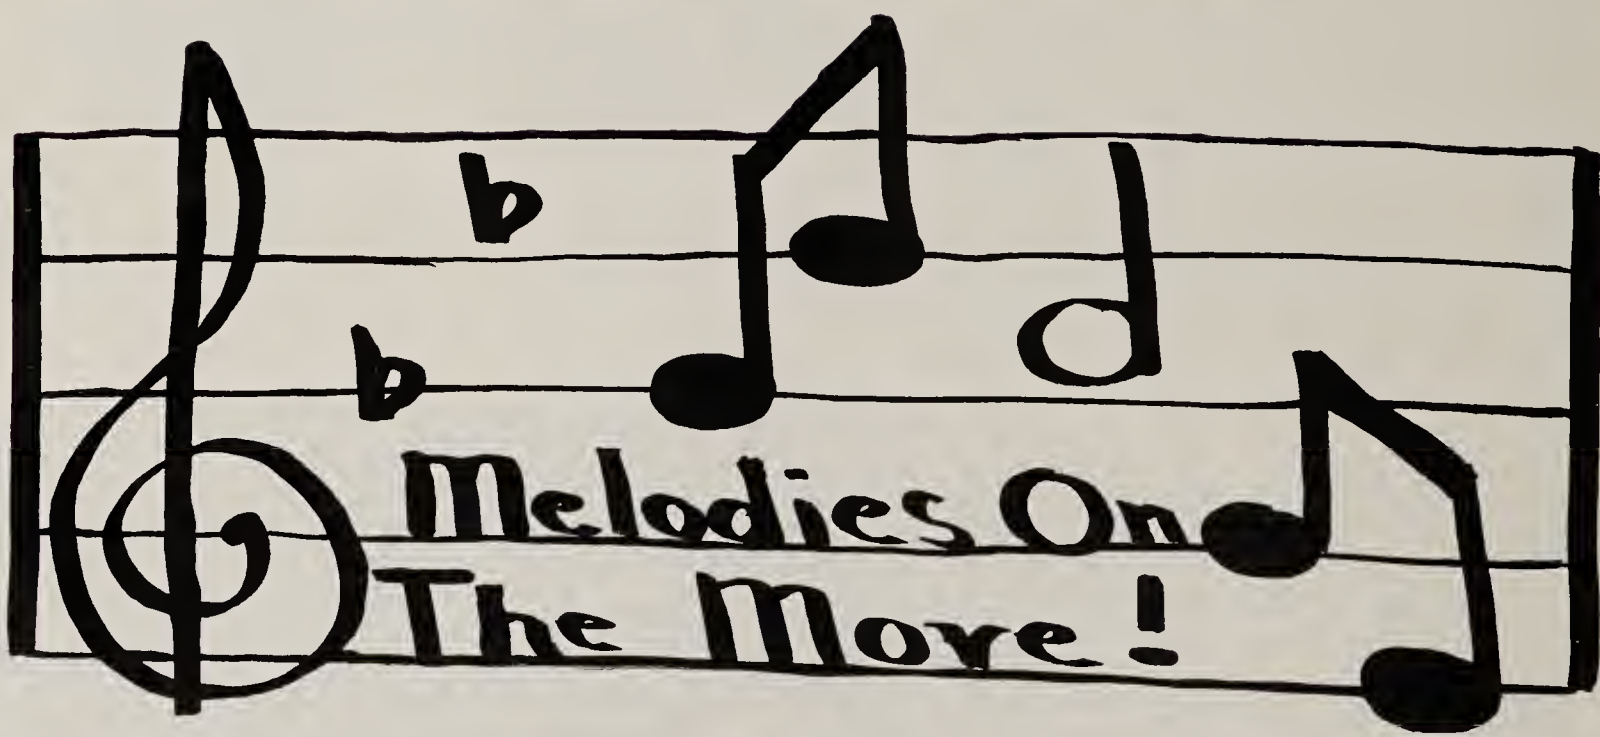
"Do you understand?" asks Mr. Schmidt.



Mrs. Sevier waits for the answers.

Miss Brown experiments with G-O boards.

At left Miss Rich conducts a music class. Below Mr. Hopkins conducts the concert band to victory.



If you wonder why you hear singing and instruments playing at the end of the hall maybe you are by the music department. Vocal and instrumental music are in many Viking schedules. All Vikings may enroll in music.

Concert choir members are all freshmen from Lane and meet on alternating days. They practice for many concerts which are given throughout the year.

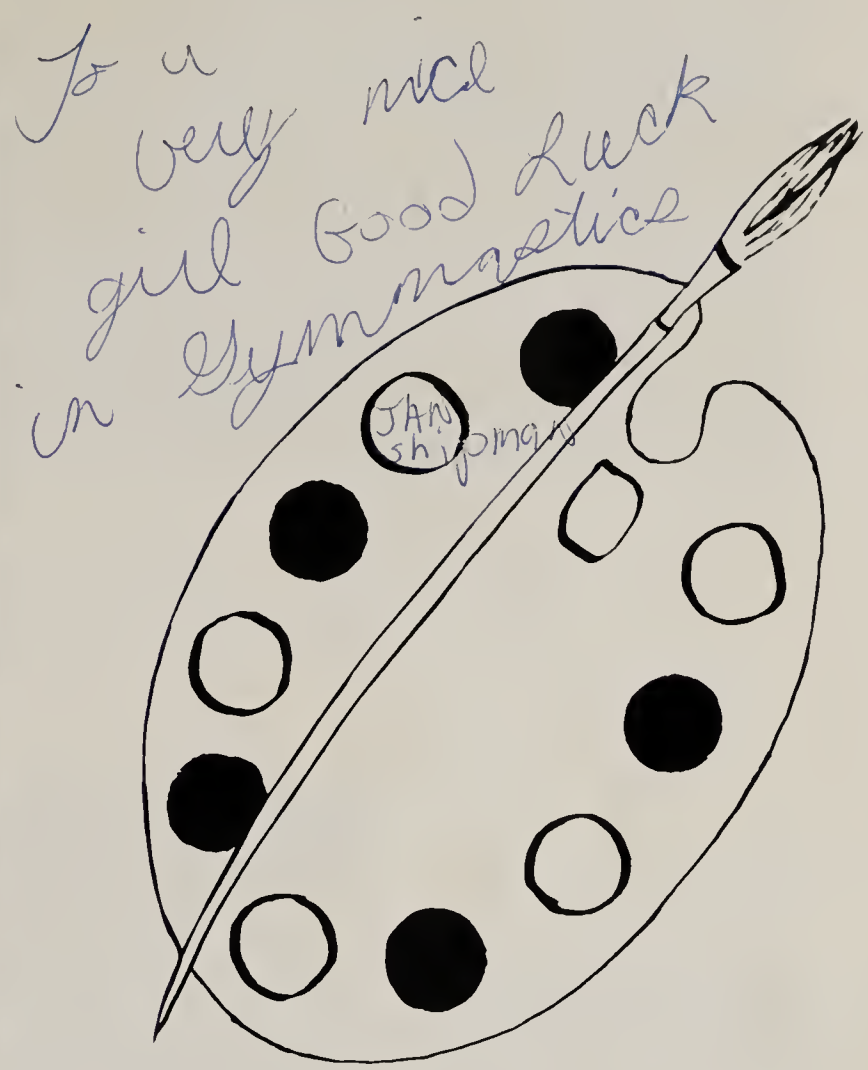
Cadet choir follows after concert choir and is made up of eighth graders.

Seventh grade students study the basic fundamentals of music including how to read notes, obtain rhythm and learn about the different instruments.

Concert band and cadet band are the instrumental music groups. Seventh and eighth grade band members practice hard in cadet band to obtain a number one spot in the concert band the following year.

. . . Being a Creator

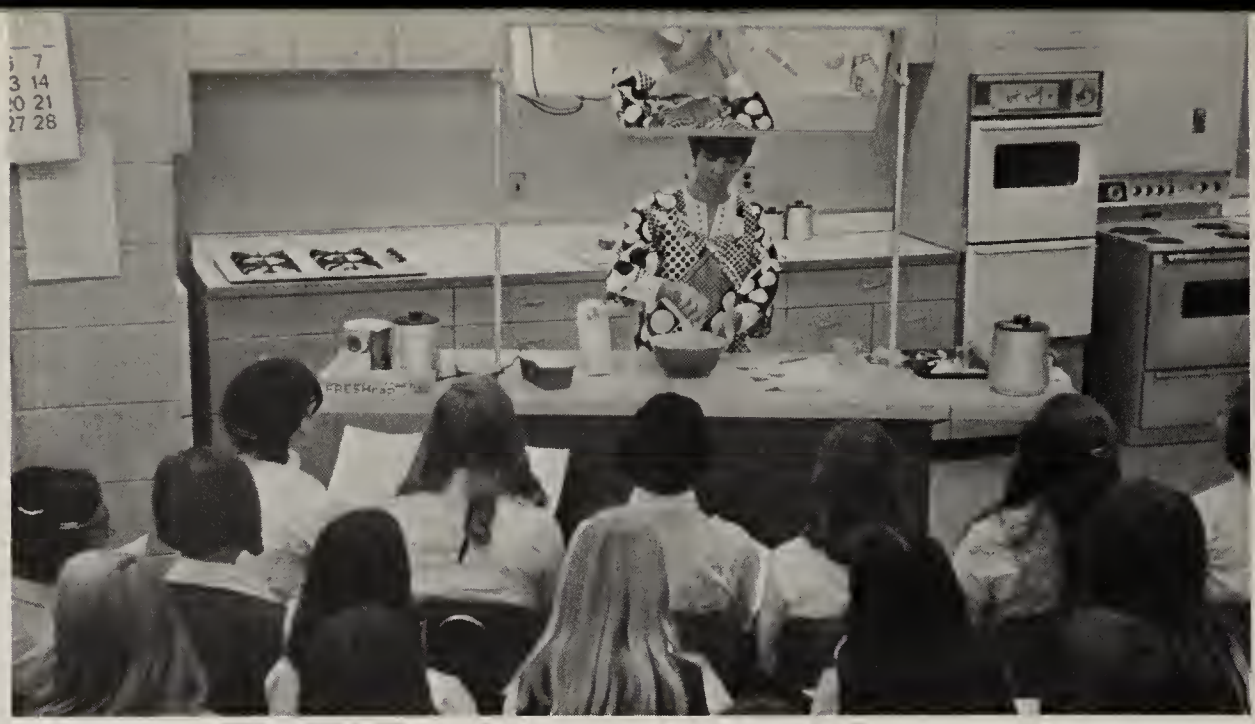
A real demonstration of talent.



Art is an important activity in a student's day. Art helps relax one while working on a project. Sometimes the art student works with clay, sometimes with papier mache and sometimes one draws or drafts. What is interesting about art, is to see what ones imagination can dream up.

The seventh grade students take art for nine weeks. The eighth grade students may choose art for one semester or two. The freshmen may select art as an elective for alternating days.

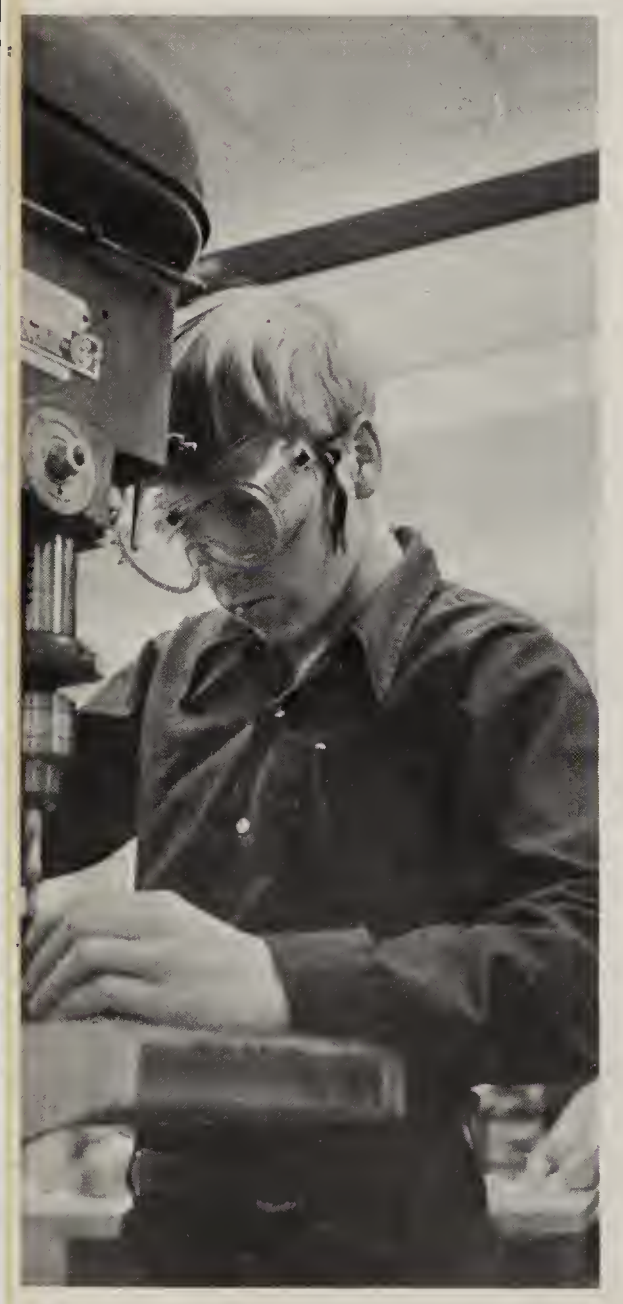
Mrs. Swager helps her students paint a pretty picture.



Miss Winteregg is cooking up a storm.

. . . Learning to Work

Next time you see this man tell him you like his glasses.



Mr. Petrie makes drafting fun and useful.

Lane has classes in industrial arts and home economics. Girls learn sewing and cooking and home care. A course is offered to all three grades.

Shop developes skills in wood and metal workings as well as drafting. The boys plan, organize and evaluate projects for the home. They also learn good working and safety habits.

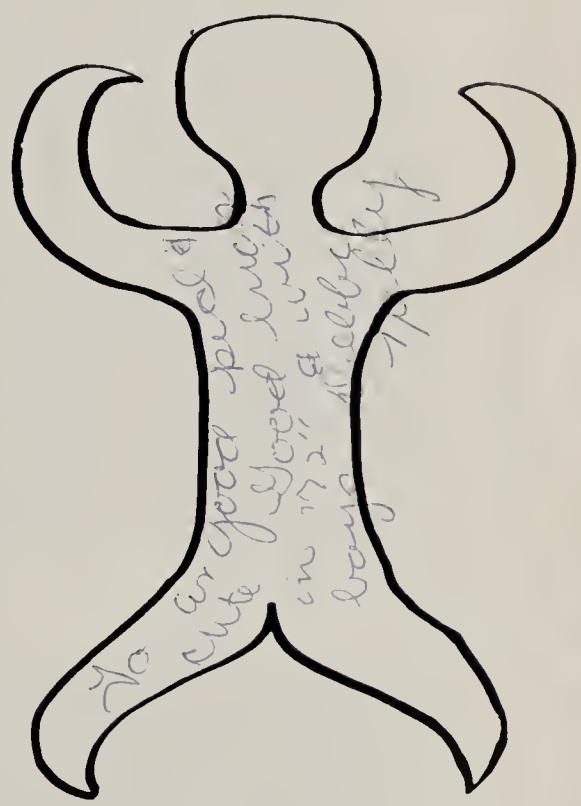
Both courses teach skills about daily living.

Mr. Kramer wakes the dead.

. . . Being Alert and Fit

Vikings learn about the human body and how to take care of it in physical education and health. Both of these subjects are required and alternated. Physical education is a combination of archery, football and rhythm for the girls and wrestling battleball and football for the boys. When the curtain is broken the boys and girls participate in games together.

Unlike physical education, health is only required for ninth graders. The first three quarters concentrate on the physical and mental health of our bodies. The last quarter consists of the classroom segment of driver's education.



Mrs. Aldrich keeps the class jumping.

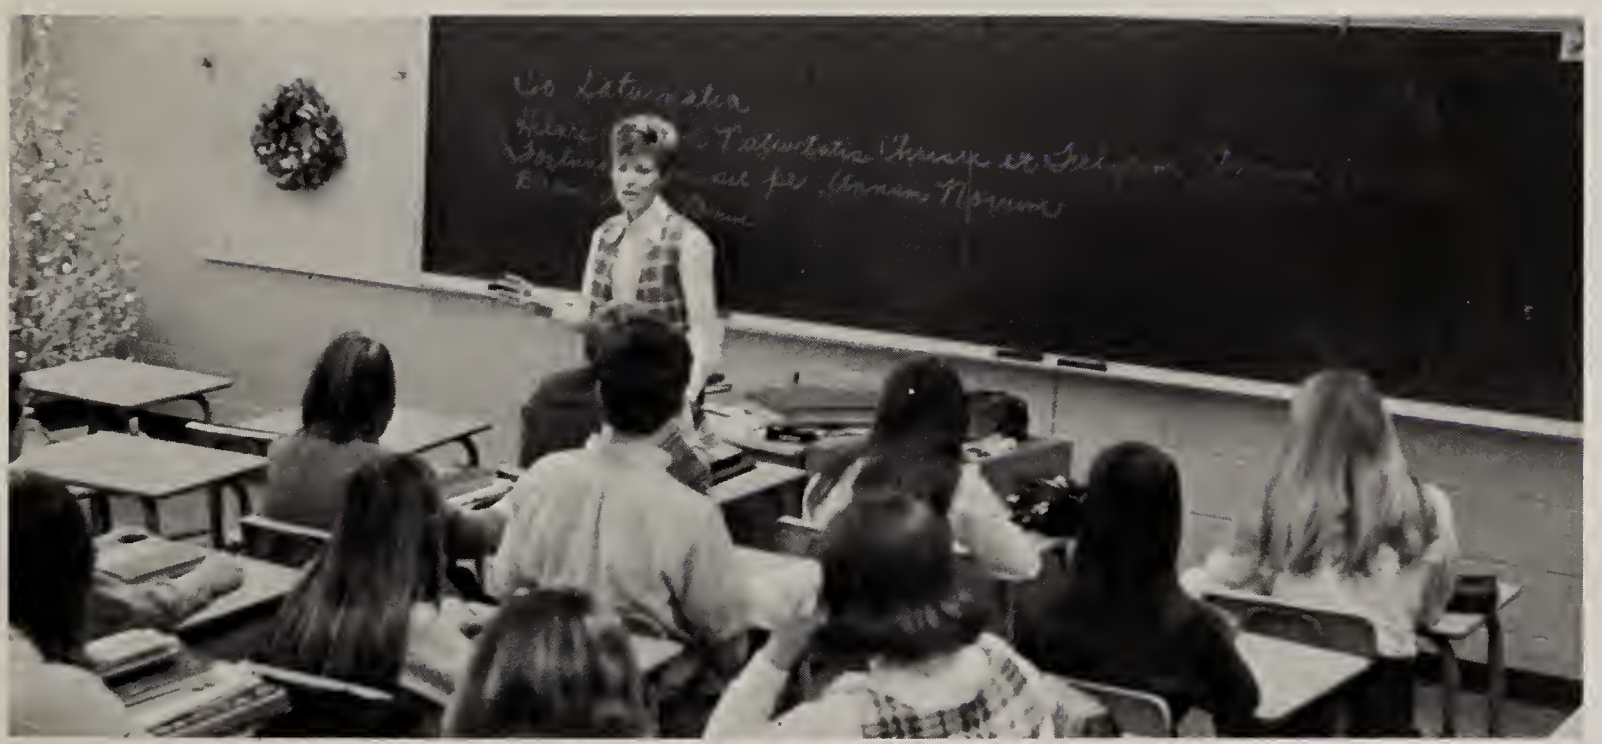
Dramatics is offered to the freshmen again this year. Students who enrolled learn the art of expressive acting like Cindy and Tom in their acting debut.

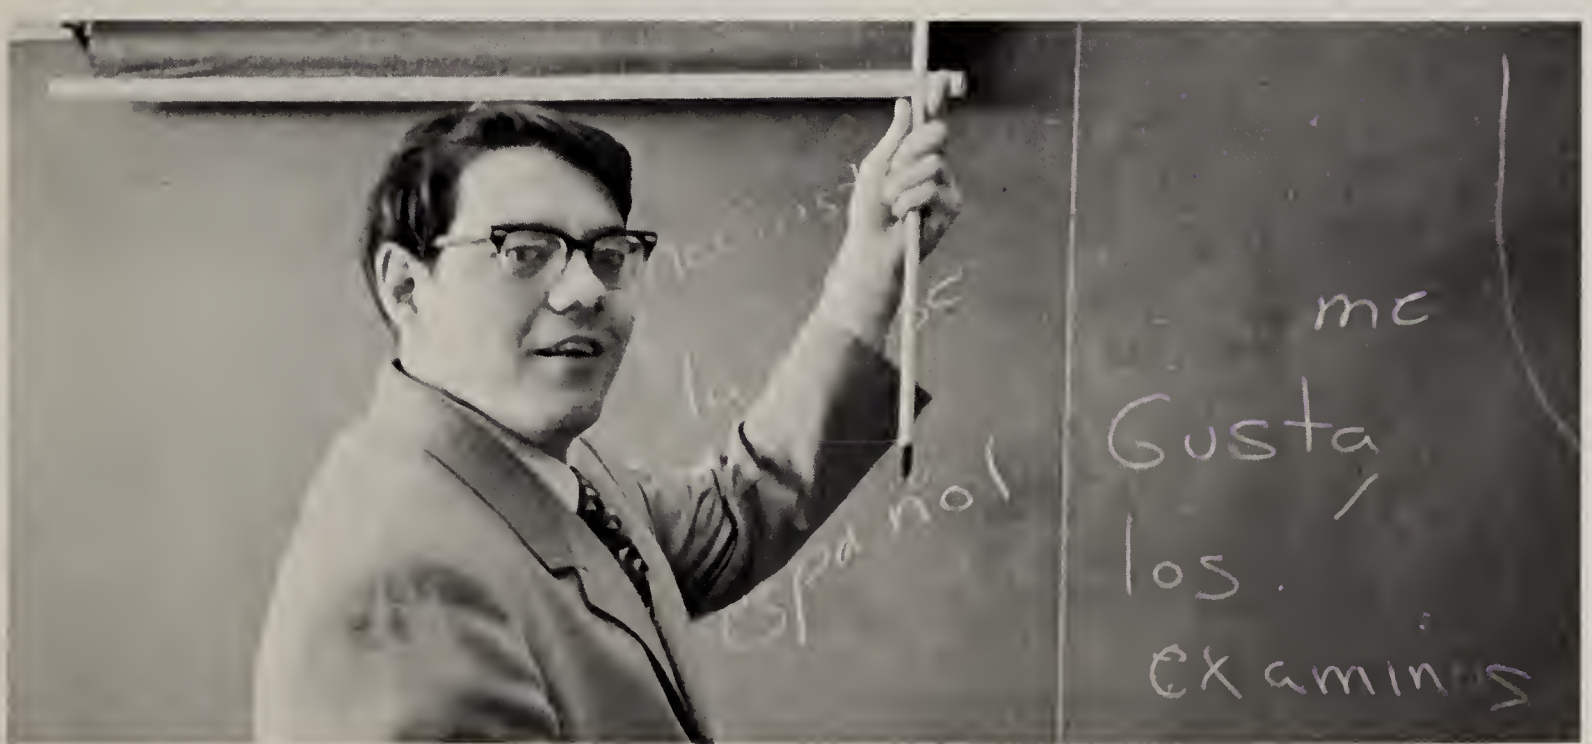
. . . Developing Special Interests

Another of the freshmen's electives is citizenship, in which students learn about government and the responsibilities involved in being a citizen of the United States. Here Mr. McClelland's class picks their candidate.

In publications, students learn how to organize a paper and edit a yearbook. It is fun and work at the same time. Renee, Dave, Steve and Beth look like they're working hard on the yearbook.

Kelly, Love your horses & poems. See ya '71 Sonja Slater



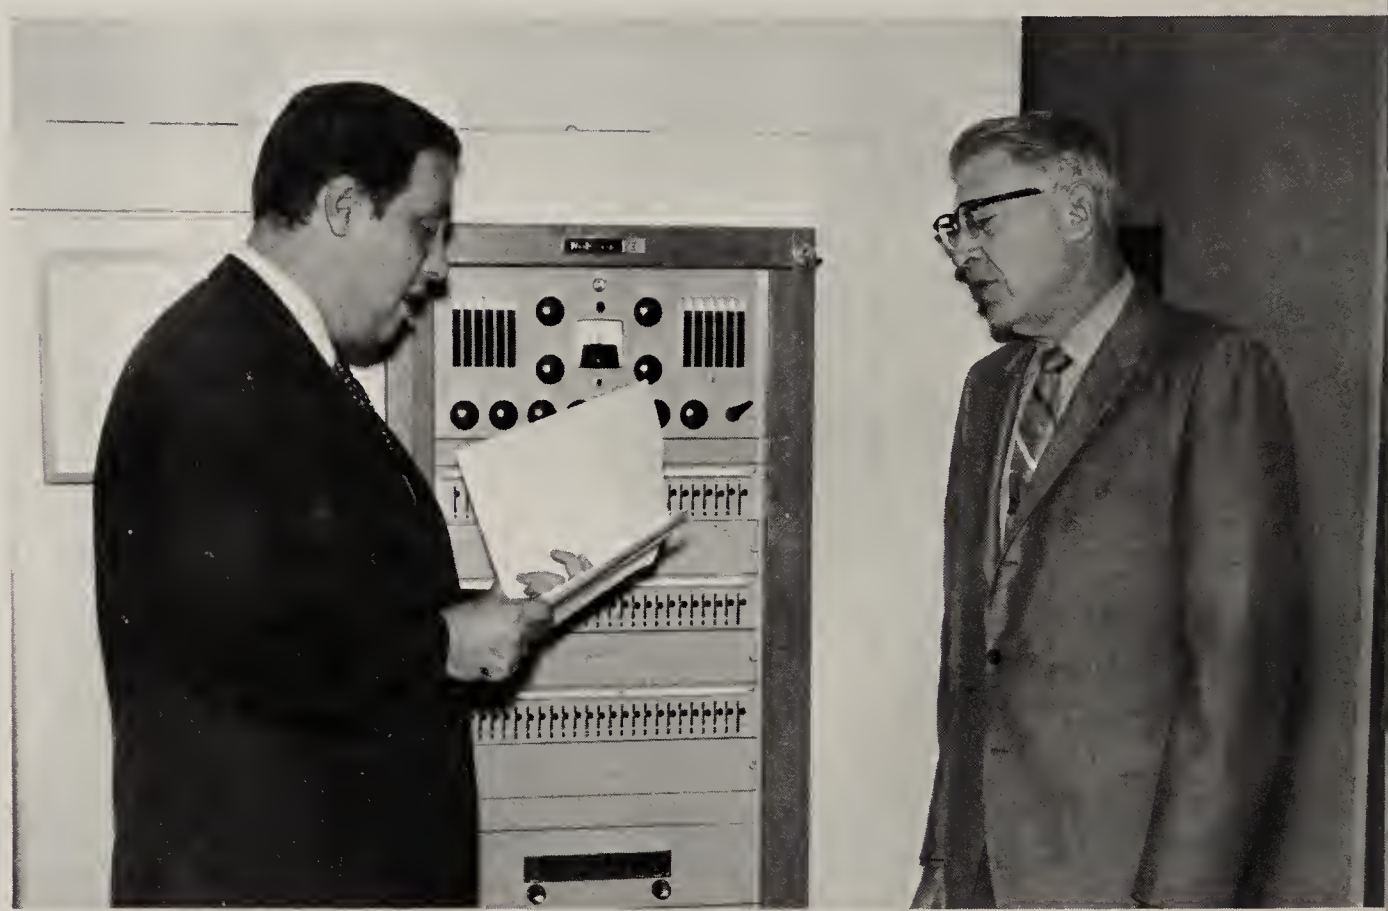


. . . A HELPFUL FACULTY

Mr. Ralph E. McClain has many duties as principal of Lane Junior High School. He must make decisions about the school, his staff and Lane students. An important duty is to keep the school in operation, but it is even more important that he keep the atmosphere conducive to learning.

Mr. McClain has had experience as a teacher and principal. He is well qualified to make policies in the best interest of Lane and to work for every person connected with Lane.

. . . Knowing Your in Good Hands



Before making an announcement, Mr. McClain discusses plans for the tourney game with Mr. Karanovich. These two men along with Mr. Kaufman plan activities which make school a little brighter.

Our assistant principal, Mr. Karanovich is talking to the guidance counselors, Mrs. McDougle and Mr. Kaufman. Some of his duties are arranging seventh period activities, working with parent-teacher procedures, supervising the cafetorium and handling guidance and attendance problems. Students may also request his assistance with a special problem.

. . . Solving Problems Big and Small

Mrs. Marilyn McDougle spent her second year as a guidance counselor at Lane. She is shown here talking with Cindy Haag about scheduling for the coming year. Some of Mrs. McDougle's duties are helping students to find themselves and to be the best students possible and to act as a go-between for students and teachers. She is also a sponsor for Student Council.

Mr. Dan Kaufman, guidance counselor, is talking with Ginger Geeting about her future plans at Snider. His job as a guidance counselor includes individual and group work with students. He helps students discuss problems so a solution can be found. Mr. Kaufman is also a sponsor of the Student Council.

. . . An Organized Office

Secretaries: Mrs. Viola Younghaus and Mrs. Hults are the secretaries for Lane. Mrs. Younghaus is the secretary-treasurer and her activities include bookkeeping for the school funds and extracurricular activities. She also does secretarial work for Mr. McClain, personal and teachers.

Among Mrs. Hults duties are typing various bulletins and other material. Both are on hand to supply information to students and assist students when they need to phone home.

Kelly
